

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

haustive, and nothing germane only to that title should be put elsewhere. Nothing could be more confusing and misleading than to treat "Executions" and "Fieri Facias" as separate titles, without exhausting the subject under either.

The defects mentioned by no means render the work useless. It will be found extremely helpful in searching "the codeless myriad of precedent" buried in the ninety-two volumes of our State reports.

---

LECTURES ON THE FOURTEENTH ARTICLE OF AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES. Delivered before the Dwight Alumni Association, New York, April-May, 1898, by William D. Guthrie, of the New York Bar. Boston: Little, Brown & Company, 1898.

As indicated by its title, this volume contains a series of lectures delivered by the author before the Dwight Alumni Association of New York—an association composed, we infer, of lawyers who were former students under the late Professor Dwight, of the Columbia College Law School. The author is a distinguished member of the New York bar, and his treatment of the Fourteenth Amendment indicates thorough familiarity both with its history and construction. We have found it extremely entertaining and instructive, notwithstanding some passages referring to the South and Southern people, to the truth of which no patriotic Southerner could assent.

---

A DICTIONARY OF WORDS AND PHRASES USED IN ANCIENT AND MODERN LAW. By Arthur English, of the New York Bar, formerly Assistant Attorney Department of Interior, Washington, D. C. Washington, D. C.: Washington Law Book Co. 1899.

This work differs from the ordinary law dictionary in the omission to cite authorities and in defining only words with a technical legal signification. It is especially full in its treatment of ancient words and terms, English, Latin, Saxon, and Norman French. It will prove especially useful to students who have not become familiar with the terminology of the law.

---

THE LAW OF PARTNERSHIP, INCLUDING LIMITED PARTNERSHIPS. By Francis M. Burdick, Dwight Professor of Law in Columbia University School of Law. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. 1899.

This is an elementary treatment of the Law of Partnership, intended for the use of students. The propositions are clearly stated, and every branch of the subject is well presented. Practitioners will find the work most useful for purposes of getting at the fundamentals of this important subject.

---

THE ANNOTATED CORPORATION LAWS OF ALL THE STATES, Generally Applicable to Stock Corporations, Including Statutes and Constitutional Provisions relating to Receivers, Practice, Taxation, Trusts and Combinations, Labor and Crimes by Corporations, and their Officers. In three volumes. Compiled and edited by Robert C. Cumming, Frank B. Gilbert and Henry L. Woodward, of the Albany, N. Y., Bar. Albany: J. B. Lyon & Company, Publishers. 1899.

These volumes contain the bulk of the constitutional and statutory law of every State of the Union, regulating private corporations, or in which those who are called upon to deal with the law affecting corporations in another State would be interested. The constitutional provisions and statutes of each State are set apart